

Guy (00:02):

The following feature demonstration is an early developer proof of concept and does not represent a finished solution. Icons and feature names may be different in the final product. When you click our auto-replace button, it's like eXtyle's auto-redact, but with a hybrid twist. We send the document to our cloud-based server where we use XSLT and our team's extensive expertise to preserve tracked changes. Once auto-replace is complete, the document refreshes. You can see here that several redactions have been made, all neatly marked as coming from Project Orion and ready for your approval. This is just one of the many ways Project Orion will help you to do more.